

“Barns: Vermont’s Vanishing Landscape”

The students of L.E.S’s sixth grade outdid themselves at the Black River Academy Museum with a performance and presentation “Barns: Vermont’s Vanishing Landscape” on June 8th. With the help of Georgia Brehm, the curator of the museum, Bill Tucker, and Tony Ciufu, the students demonstrated for the audience the raising of a barn and unveiled their permanent exhibit of local barns. Funding by the Okemo Community Challenge Grant enabled the students to “connect with local history’ in authentic and meaningful ways. Thank you to all that helped us in one way or another with our “barn” project: Linda Tucker, Dan Moore, Jack Dortch, Jean Morrill, Bruce McEnaney, Sharon Bixby, Annette Lynch, and Dot & Jack Stocker. Thank you!
